FINANCIAL SERVICES GUIDE

About this document

This Financial Services Guide (Guide) is an important document that outlines the types of products and services that First Point Wealth Management Pty Limited ('FPWM', 'we', 'us' or 'our') can provide to you under our Australian Financial Services Licence (AFSL).

This Guide is designed to assist you in deciding whether to use our financial services and to provide you with an understanding of what to expect from our relationship. It contains important information about:

- who we are and how we can be contacted
- the services and types of products we are authorised to provide
- how we (and any other relevant parties) are remunerated
- how complaints are dealt with.

Other documents you may receive

If you choose to use any of our products or services, you may also receive other important documents including:

Statement of Advice (SoA) and Record of Advice (RoA)

An SoA is a document that summarises your situation and goals and sets out your adviser's advice and recommendations. If you are a retail client, you will normally receive an SoA when we provide you with personal advice that takes into consideration your objectives, financial situation and needs. The SoA will contain:

- the advice
- a summary of the key background on which the advice is based
- information about fees, commissions and associations related to the provision of the advice.

We may not provide you with an SoA in certain circumstances, such as when we only provide general advice or when we provide you with further personal advice. If you have previously received an SoA and the basis on which the advice was given is not significantly different and your relevant personal circumstances have not materially changed, we may not be required to provide you with a further SoA. Where further personal advice is provided and we are not required to provide you with a further SoA, the details of such personal advice may be documented in an RoA.

A RoA is similar to an SoA in that it sets out the personal advice that your adviser provides; however, the adviser retains the RoA. You can request a copy of the RoA from your adviser for up to seven years after the advice has been given. Your request can be made in writing or verbally.

Product Disclosure Statement (PDS)

A PDS is a document that describes a financial product. A PDS contains important information to assist you to make a decision about the product. You will usually receive a PDS if a recommendation is made to acquire a particular financial product (other than securities) or an offer is made to issue or arrange the issue of a particular financial product.

Advice and your best interests

In order for us to give you personal advice, you will need to provide details of your personal objectives, current financial situation, needs and any other relevant information, so that we can provide you with advice which is appropriate and in your best interests.

You do not have to provide us with this information. If you choose not to provide us with this information, we may not be able to provide you with personal advice, or the advice you receive may be general in nature and may not address your particular objectives, financial situation and needs.

We may provide personal advice to you if you use our services. We will not give you personal advice in our regular updates, research reports, marketing material.

We are committed to acting in your best interests when we provide you with personal advice. We will conduct meaningful discussions with you about your financial needs. Your needs and interests are important in driving our advice and services.

If there are any instances where the advice and service cannot be fulfilled by your adviser according to their level of accreditation, your adviser will coordinate the provision of the advice and services from other advisers if this is appropriate for you. Your adviser can provide you with further details of their accreditation levels and the types of advice and services they can offer to you.

Payment we receive for the services we provide

We may charge fees for services and products we provide. Information about fees, commissions and/or benefits will be contained in the SoA, or where an SoA is not required, will be disclosed to you verbally or in writing.

These fees may be charged in various ways, including:

- advice fees
- ongoing service fees
- asset-based fees
- administration fees
- brokerage on trades
- subscription or service fees
- other benefits that are paid with your consent.

If you invest in a product we recommend, we may receive benefits from the product issuer where permitted by law. These benefits may include portions of upfront fees, management fees (which includes transaction, ongoing and, if applicable, any borrowing costs).

What we may charge you

Advice fees

The fee for the preparation of advice will vary depending on your individual circumstances and an assessment of the complexity of the advice provided. This fee will be agreed with you prior to your adviser preparing the advice.

You may also be charged an ongoing advisory fee of between 0 per cent to 5 per cent of the ongoing value of your investments, or your adviser may charge an annual fee (which will be agreed with you upfront).

Where you have borrowed to fund your investments, we may charge you a flat fee. The applicable advice fees will be disclosed to you by your adviser.

Brokerage and other service fees

Brokerage will apply to any trading in financial products that you conduct with us. The schedule of standard fees and charges related to our brokerage services is shown below. In addition to brokerage fees, we may also charge other fees including (but not limited to) exchange and clearing fees, interest and other administrative fees. Further details of brokerage fees are set out in our account opening material, terms and conditions, product disclosure statements and/or the relevant product offer document.

Product/Service	Type of fee	Fee details
